New Massey-Ferguson 88 Tractor Is Specially-Built For Prairie Farms

The all-new Massey-Ferguson 88 tractor, introduced at the company's recent "Show of Progress" dealer convention in Detroit, is a big-capacity unit specially-built to meet the rugged pull-type demands of large-scale Canadian prairie farming operations.

The new 88 has the weight to provide traction to match the strength of its rugged swinging drawbar. When the tires are filled with calcium chloride solution its field weight exceeds 8,000 lbs. Wide-level discs, chisel plows, 5-bottom mouldboard plows and similar loads are handled with speed and efficiency.

The new transmission in the MF 88 offers a choice of eight forward speeds through the use of dual range controls. Five of these speeds are in the useful work range of under 6 mph. This means that engine speed and pull power can be matched for maximefficiency and economy.

The 70" tread of the rear wheels provides stability and there is generous room on the platform for the operator. The thick foam rubber seat with padded back rest is located slightly ahead of the rear axle where it is easily accessible. Large step plates provide easy accessibility and there is a choice of standing or sitting positions.

The hydraulic system is built into the transmission in a way that gives constant hydraulic power for one, two or three hydraulic cylinders. Hydraulic power is controlled by valves at the operator's finger tips.

Power steering is regular equipment so that the operator's control is easy and accurate, even after many hours of operation.

The MF 88 introduces a new concept of complete and safe control of power-take-off power for combines, swathers, balers, mowers, etc. The variable drive pto. provides engine drive or ground drive. The control of engine-drive live pto. is uniquely versatile through double control of its hydraulically actuated clutch.

For routine control and for safety, the pto. is immediately disengaged when the regular clutch foot pedal is shoved down beyond the regular disengaged By this means the operator can stop everything if there is need for a "panic" stop.

This same hydraulic clutch is also actuated by a hand lever at left of the operator so that it can be engaged or disengaged at any time without touching the foot pedal.

This is a unique combination of versatility and safety features which have been requested by users from coast to coast.

PART 4

in the series "How to Get Along With People"

Many persons keep wearing themselves out trying to understand life in general, and their own life in particular. I believe strongly, as did the great Spanish philosopher, Santayana, that "Man is not made to understand life, but to live it." Myerson, one of the wisest psychiatrists of his generation, wrote that once, after he had suffered a heart attack and "the angel of death fluttered around," he read many of the books "that deal with God and man and the Universe; in brief, with religion, philosophy, and science." He read and read and read, and yet, the why of life and death completely eluded him; so far as he could see, they had eluded even those men who thought they knew all about it. I sometimes have to beg a confused young man or woman to stop trying to find some new wonderful formula or philosophy for the guidance of his or her life. A great lesson that many such persons need to learn is that man's inability to think things all out should never keep him from living actively. Dr. Myerson said, "The wise man does not expect consistency or harmony in the pattern of his own life or any other man's life, for he sees that man is a mosaic of characteristics and qualities that only rarely achieve an internal intrinsic harmony. The individual

Film To Be Shown In Lac la Biche

The world's first Bible deliverance film, Venture into Death", which is built around the evangelistic ministry of Rev. Oral Roberts, will be shown at the Masonic Hall, Lac la Biche, on Sunday, March 1st, at 7:30 p.m.

The film features Oral Roberts and tells an absorbing story of the power of faith in God. Centering around the nation-wide Roberts' campaigns, this sound-color religious picture includes soul-stirring scenes from Oral Roberts' meetings under the huge "tent cathedral".

The story is built around Jim and Ruth Collins who are faced with the tragic certainty of the nearing death of their young son, Dave, who is bedfast with tuberculosis. Jim is embittered, worried, rejects religion in any form. Ruth has faith, but can't get her husband to face its power. A close friend tells them of the work of Oral Roberts and his great faith in the power of God. What happens to the Collins family after they have attended two of the Roberts' meetings furnishes the action for this gripping story, which will be understood by everyone who has ever been faced with tragedy and found help and salvation through faith in God.

"Venture Into Faith" is a pioneer attempt to strengthen the viewers faith in God. The sincerity and genuine faith in God exemplified throughout the film make it one of the greatest religious pictures ever produced.

The picture is being shown without admission charge throughout the country in churches and auditoriums, but will be shown in in theatres. Everyone is invited to attend.

In Lac la Biche "Venture Into Faith" is being sponsored by Arthur M. Lessard.

REPORT FROM THE LEGISLATURE

By Richard Hall, MLA

The debate on the Speech from the Throne was continued. A new house ruling closed off the debate Friday, Feb. 20 at 5 p.m. when the amendments and motion were voted on. The amendments brought in by the opposition were lost and the motion carried.

Seven cabinet ministers spoke during the debate as well as the premier. Two of the ministers, namely the minister of health, Dr. J. Ross and agriculture minister, Hon. L. C. Halmrast outlined the proposed legislature for their departments. The other ministers devoted their time to answering the suggestions and criticisms of the opposition.

Two of the major discussions brought forth during the last week were The Farm Purchasing Credit Act and the price of natural gas to consumers in the province of Alberta.

J. H. McLaughlin, Liberal, Stony Plain, asked for an expanded farm credit which would make loans up to $25,000 to cover all farming activities.

He pointed out the advanced legislation in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario for loans to farmers at low interest rates and long terms. In the Athabasca constituency, Richard Hall pointed out the very significant changes that were taking place in farming. The changing pattern coming too quickly in one generation—from the days of small horse-drawn equipment to highly mechanized farming—to scientific and highly skilled farm management, is more than a farmer can handle alone. It then becomes the role of government to assist the farmer in making these new changes by providing capital loans.

The Social Credit group are taking the attitude that it is not the responsibility of the provincial government alone but a duty of the federal government as well. It appears now that the original motion to set up a new system of farm credits won't go very far.

Legislation that will be brought before the assembly this session is a new loan up to $2,500 for farm home improvement. This was announced recently by Hon. Mr. Halmrast, the minister of agriculture.

Tabled in the legislature was information concerning Long Lake provincial park in the Newbrook district. Lands and forests minister Mr. Willmore provided Richard Hall with details concerning the leasing of summer cabins, or cottages to be erected on the sites.

The budget was brought in Friday night, Feb. 20 by provincial treasurer Hon. E. W. Hinman. This is the largest provincial budget on record. Expenditures will total $309,676,000, the greatest part going for roads, schools and health.

Canadians trying to reduce should add deep breathing to the program. reater oxygen intake burns off waste fats help reduce poundage.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ponich of Edmonton were recent visitors at their farm home.

Lac la Biche MLA Replies To Speech From The Throne

Mr. Speaker, I too wish to congratulate the mover and seconder of the Speech from the throne as well as to all those who have spoken before me.

In speaking to what could quite readily be the last session of thirteenth legislature, I though it fitting that I would make sure that you are all made fully aware of the Lac la Biche constituency — now the largest in the province. I had planned to explain in detail why the Alberta Fish and Game Association in their recent annual convention have emphasized the development of the Lac la Biche area which they describe and I quote "North America's Best Potential Fishing Grounds." However, I shall forego this pleasure but before going into the matter of my address, I do wish to express my thanks and appreciation on behalf of my constituents to the Hon. Dr. Ross for the introduction of an Emergency Air Ambulance Service. I note with satisfaction that it is being used quite extensively, and the Hon. Minister will be happy to learn that I can report of at least one life that was saved since its implementation.

Quoting from the Speech from the Throne:

METIS POPULATION

"The program of aid to the Metis population of the province will be further expanded particularly in respect of the breaking of new land and the provision of more housing."

The provision of more housing is encouraging and necessary, but otherwise finds this program of aid to the Metis rather limited to say the least. I had hoped that this government would implement some of what I believe are excellent recommendations by the Royal Commission on the Development of Northern Alberta.

I was hoping for a program that would provide some new incentive for the Metis. A program that would fit more closely to his way of life. Say — a tie between the Metis and his trap line — The Forestry and forest protection. We could call it a Metis Forestry Corp wherein he would trap his line during winter months and be hired to remain on and patrol his area during the dangerous fire periods of spring, summer or fall. He would thereby have the same personal interest in his trap line area as would the Forestry Department — a burnt out trap line will not abound in game. — He could be employed in a planned tree planting program where conditions war ranted such a program. — These are but a few of the suggestions that come to mind and are offered for your consideration.

Let us not for one moment think that any great improvement has been made in regard to the Metis problem. I dare say very little improvement has been made and to confirm this observation I beg leave to quote from the Royal Commission report, Page 107:

"While Alberta has been one of the most forward looking provinces in its concern over the Metis and its positive approach to the problem, nevertheless much is left to be done. The general condition, acthe Metis is one of privitation, actual hunger and unhealthy living conditions. The living standards of these people are not rising appreciably, in most cases it may be said that the Metis live in shacks on a hand-to-mouth basis."

NOT FARMERS

The Metis are not farmers at heart and I cannot therefore find any great merit to your proposal for breaking additional acres. I do believe though that his way of life would lend itself much more readily and happily to cattle raising than to farming. Has this government ever given consideration of the establishment of a large full scale cattle ranch with Metis ranch hands, under a plan wherein the government would provide the management and the Metis all the other aptitudes required of a good ranch hand?

Quoting further from the Commission report we find the following: Until quite recently it was assumed that the greatest good that we could do either the Metis or Indians was to change them into farmers. It is only in the last two decades that we have come to realize that farming, as distinguished from mere subsistance, is a specialized undertaking requiring above all other aptitude, that of management. Except in rare instances neither Inndians nor Metis at present possess this aptitude.

The Metis are trappers and fishermen, they are excellent woodsmen and guides, and large numbers are employed in the construction and transportation fields of industry.

Education I beleive is and will continue being the greatest factor in the betterment of the Metis. It Minister of Highway who said has been a prime requisite of the Family Allowance Act that in order to be eligible for Family Allowance or "Baby Bonus" all children of school age must attend school or the family alowance is withheld — and if for this reason alone — I must point to the Hon. member from Calgary, Mr. Dixon — that there was a vast difference between the Baby Bonus and the now discarded Oil Dividend.

NOT HOPELESS

The situation is not hopeless — it is indeed encouraging but this government will have to do its part. The Commission report goes on to say "There is an opportunity to do something now. Within the next 30 years we expect the population of northern Alberta to increase over three times to reach a figure of 270,000. Today the Indians and Metis are over 10% of the whole population and by 1987 they will be slightly over 5% of the white or 14,500. Of this number between 3,000 and 4,000 will be heads of households. If northern Alberta obtains the primary industry which we have every reason to expect, it will mean that in the occupations associated with forestry, oil, gas, mining, manufacturing, construction and transportation alone, there will be employment for some 36,000 more men than there is today. It should not be too difficult to absorb between three to four thousand Metis in this labor force — one man in every 10.

And quoting further, the Commission recommended that:

1. A careful combined study of both Indian and Metis in northern Alberta should be made, and that somebody should be appointed and charged with the responsibility of such a study which would include consideration of the points mentioned in this section.

That the employment be recognized as a fundamental necessity in providing the environment and atmosphere which will lead to the utimate adjustment of the Indian and Metis, and that a work program of a nature which will invite and induce the Indians and the Metis to work with other citizens of Canada should be offered.

Quoting further from the Throne Speech:

"To aid in relieving the hardships of winter unemployment joint projects are being carried out to take maximum advantage of Federal Municipal Winter Roads Plans."

By adding this winter unemployment project to the program of "Roads to Resources" should have totalled up to what we in the Lac la Biche Constituency believe is the most opportune time for the immediate construction of the long needed road to McMurray. Submission and petitions have been forwarded to the government on a number of occasions. Briefs were submitted to the Royal Commission on the Development of Northern Alberta by both the McMurray Chamber of Commerce and the Lac la Biche Chamber of Commerce and it is interesting to note that on Page 6 of the Commission report Section (c) dealing with Highways, we find the following:

The Commission is of the opinion that with the exception of two or three relatively minor roads listed below, the Government of Alberta is adequately meeting the needs of the Peace River country for roads, or has given some special emphasis to road building in that area. It feels however, that the remainder of northern Alberta should receive more attention in the future and recommends that construction of the following main and secondary highways and market roads should be commenced immediately and carried through

SECONDARY HIGHWAY

1. Build a secondary highway that will be passable in all conditions of weather from Highway No. 46 near Plamondon to McMurray and on Page 96 Section 8 of that report particulars are given in detail supporting this recommendation.

When we realize that McMurray is a thriving, bustling community of over 1000 population.

That McMurray can boast over 400 vehicles, but only some 11 miles of roads to travel on.

Take into consideration the fact that when the Royal Commission arrived at their recommendations in 1957 it was not aware of the Winter Unemployemnt Program nor the Roads to Resources Pro grame.

Then take into consideration the vast potential of the Athabasca tar sands to say nothing of other oil, mineral, timber, fish and game wealth in this area, then I can quite honestly say, Mr. Speaker— that if any road is to qualify under the Program of Road to Resources — can anybody think of a better one?

I believe it only fair to add that the Forestry Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests favor this location and in fact have cut out a winter road through which it is now possible to reach McMurray in winter by Jeep. The proposed highway would be ideally located in that it would be used in fire protection — it would make accessible to the tourist a number of fishing lakes and streams and it would be the shortest distance McMurray to Edmonton — via North America's Best Potential Fishing Grounds, the Lac la Biche district.

An extensive program of improvements to provincial parks sounded like the real thing. But here again provisions were outlined for an additional area of some 2100 square miles north of Jasper National Park. What about Big Island Park in Lac la Biche? This area was set aside for a provincial park some 10 years ago and while representations have been made continuously year after year, requesting the construction of a road to the island — a causeway across the shallow water separating the island from the mainland — and a survey of the island in order that we could commence a planned development of the park — to date nothing has been done. No monies appropriated for this important project.

On Page 8 of the recommendations of the Northern Development Commission report under Tourist Promotion we find the following:

1. That the province embark upon a program of promoting and advertising northern Alberta as a whole, with a view to attracting lucrative tourist trade for northern Alberta, such a program should extend over a period of several years and while it should be handled by the existing tourist promotion department, it should have a separate and distinct budget so that it does not become submerged in general tourist promotion.

The report goes on further to say — That since there are a number of good fishing lakes east and northeast of Lac la Biche which present wonderful tourist opportunities, highways should be built so that as opportunities offer they can be exploited to help build our tourist potential.

It is evident that this government has ignored the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Northern Development with respect to our northeastern portion of the province. To say I am disappointed is putting it mild. However, I still am hopeful that some consideration has been given these recommendations in the development program that is now termed as the Five-year Plan and that these will be made known sometime during this Session.

HOMES FOR THE AGED

Although application has been made for the establishment for such a home at Lac la Biche, and notwithstanding the fact that the Constituency of Lac la Biche is comprised of an area almost one-fifth of the land mass of Alberta, we have not as yet received the assurance that our request will be granted, and I herewith take this opportunity of urging the Hon. Minister that he give kind consideration to our request.

Although I cannot help but compliment this government for the thought behind this program of Homes for the Aged, still I believe that a word of caution would be in order too. The program is glamorous and has universal appeal, but let us ask ourselves these few sobering questions. Who will use these homes in the recommended age groups of 70 and over for which they were intended. Those in good mental and physical health, those dependent individuals, to whom this program caters to are hardly likely to enter these institutions. Those that are not able to take care of themselves are not eligible. What we have remaining are the aged citizens in between thes two groups.

Who will determine whether they are eligible or otherwise? What provisions are being made for their spiritual needs? What happens when they are sick? Who will supply them with medicines when in the Home? Remember they only will have $10.00 comfort money left after paying the recommended $60.00 for their upkeep.

What happens when they want to move out in spring and summer months? Have we the dieticians — trained staff — I would go so far as to say a dedicated staff for the proper management of these 50 homes?

Are we actually ready to build these 50 homes en masse?

Are we reasonably assured that the sites now selected are proper ones and I ask this last question with grave doubts in my mind. I feel and I stand corrected if I am wrong, that the sites were selected on cold statistics, no regard, or at least very little regard being given to area and economics.

It is interesting to note at this point that in the Pembina Constituency two homes have been allocated. One at Barrhead, the other at Westlock.

Moving eastward we find that Athabasca has been selected for a site, and moving further to the east we find that Bonnyville has been selected for another.

Distance Athabasca to St. Paul 150 mile, with Lac la Biche (no home allocated) in the centre, 75 miles from Athabasca, 75 miles from St. Paul. Distance between Westlock and Barrhead a bare 25 miles.

CUT AND DRIED

I feel with regret that very little consideration was given to the wishes of the people. The plan is pretty well cut and dried — take it or leave it. I believe the idea is excellent — the planning leaves much to be desired.

And in closing, sir — I was very happy to hear the mover of the throne speech, the Hon. Member Dr. Cross say, in referring to the opposition and I quote "we are all partners in a big business," although I must admit it becomes confusing when we quote the Hon. Minister of Highways when he stated that the Social Credit Party has never used roads or bridges for political advantage, or words to that effect — I could understand it much better and would vae been much happier if he had said that "Never again woud his party use roads and bridges for political advantage."

Finally in referring to the Hon. Premier's remarks as to Negative Carping Criticism and Political Dishonesty, I would like to ask the Hon. Premier — was it Negative Carping Criticism when I introduced the Air Ambulance motion for the last time in 1958 — or was it political dishonesty when he turned it down in 1958 and implemented in 1959?

The goldfish is closely related to the carp.

WE'RE STRANGE MIXTURES

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

is a collection: an accidental juxtaposition of discordance and agreement." Many of us are strange mixtures of good and evil, and as a result we are, inside of ourselves, a battleground.

To many of us, when at times we get tired of the hustle and bustle and all the chores, annoyances, strivings, overwork, commuting, high taxes, and demands of life in a big city, there comes a thought: "Why not run away from it all and go to some island in the South Seas where the tempo of life will be slow and easy?" Perhaps there, with expenses small, we can live on our savings and a little income from writing.

That sometimes it can pay to run away from the hurly-burly of civilization with all its headaches and ulcers and high blood pressures was shown me by a fine-looking man I found running to a bus-stop station in a beautiful glade in the mountains of the West. As he put gasoline in my car, I chatted with him, and seeing that he was a well-educated and cultured man, I asked what he was doing in such a job.

HIS ULCER HEALED

He said, "Yes, I am a graduate of Harvard Law School, and I used to practice with a big firm in New York City, but my nervous system and my stomach couldn't stand the gaff, and so I quit. Here, I just make a living, but my migraine is gone and my ulcer is healed; I feel wonderfully well, and my wife and I are happy, and glad that we fled from 'success.' "

There have been times when I have thought, like Epaminondas in the story, that if I had "the sense I was bawn with," I'd see that my busy, hard-driving way of life is foolish, and that it is the life of the beachcomber that is the richer one.

I ask myself, "Why all this struggle to get things done? What difference will it make 100 years from now? Might I not be much happier and might I not lead a richer life in a beach cottage in my beloved old homeland of Hawaii? There, I could go swimming three times a day; I could read all those books I have long wanted to read; and perhaps I could write two or three of the books I have long wanted to write. Why not, then, close my office, sell my few remaining impedimenta, and take the plane for Hamaii?"

HAPPIEST AT WORK

I imagine I do not go because in a big city I enjoy my many interesting contacts with life. If I ran away to the beach cottage, I would feel largely dead and buried, and I would not like that. As long as I am in this world with good health I am sure I will be happiest when hard at work.

At times, I love to dine richly and comfortably in a French restaurant; I love to browse through a big book store, and to learn about unusual books from my old friend, the book-seller. I like to be able to go into a huge library and search for answers to some of the questions in my mind. I like going into a great store to see the beautiful things that have been gathered from the ends of the earth.

I love my many contacts with eminent and interesting persons who come through town. I love to look through my mail in the morning to see what is there.

There are times, perhaps, when it would be good for many of us to go away for a while — all alone — into a quiet place where we could take stock: to think a while, to see what is good in what we are doing, and what is stupid and silly and "just keeping up with the Joneses." Might it not be well to see if life could be made more worth living? All of us have only so many years left, so why not take thought to live them as richly as possible?

IF ONLY A YEAR TO LIVE

Sometimes, the thought comes to me, "If I knew I had only one more year to live, what would I do with it?" Would I write one of the books I have long wanted to write, and if so, which one? Or, would I be wiser to quit work and perhaps spend much time in places I love, such as the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon of Colorado, the Tetons, Glacier National Park, the Lauterbrunnen Valley in Switzerland, and many spots in Hawaii.

Should I start around the world to see some of the places I have always wanted to see, or should I spend the time that is left to me with those in this world whom I love most?

I suspect that I would be happiest working each day in my ofifce as I always have done. I think most of the men I have known who faced death from disease, decided to keep at work as long as possible.

EACH DAY A RICH ONE

Years ago, one of my patients — an able and well-to-do man — was told that he had an inoperable cancer of his prostate gland. Fortunately, it was growing so slowly that he could hope for a year of life.

He said to his wife, "Let us not worry or be sad. Instead, let us make this next 12 months the richest year of our life together. We will invite to our home as many interesting men and women as we can induce to come; we will hear much good music; we will read together many of the great books we have always wanted to read; we will live each days as richly and happily as we can — much as if there were not another left to us."

They lived according to his plan, and later, the man's wife told me how wonderful a year it had been. As she said, "When I think how we valued so highly every 24 hours we had together. I am distressed whenever I see a man and wife ruining a day and making it unhappy over some little quarrel. How awful to waste a day."

Next Week: Why Marriages Break Up.

Health Through Chiropractic

By Dr. K. Tenove

It is better to be safe than sorry. Be careful crossing the street. Use caution when driving a car. If you work with machinery use all the safety devices with which it is equipped. Follow instructions, obey signals, don't take chances, and you will be safe instead of sorry. Better always to take a little more time than to feel the pain of injury, or the anguish of regret.

Be prudent in matters of health. Don't overindulge. Avoid dissipation. Be safe. There is not much satisfaction in pleasure that is bought at the price of injured health.

As a safety measure one of the most important things you can do is to take care of your spine. Remember that through the spine runs the spinal cord, the source of supply of nerve impulses for the millions of nerve fibres that radiate to every part of the body. Remember that a displaced vertebra in the spine, causing pressure on the spinal cord, may interfere with the free flow of these essential nerve impulses.

Accidents and falls should be followed by a visit to your Chiropractor, to make sure that your spine is in perfect alignment. Be safe, Many illnesses can result from a fall or accident. In some cases months may elapse before the full extent of the damage is apparent, and by that time the accident may be forgotten.

If you are not enjoying good health and just can't make up your mind what the main trouble is, see your Chiropractor. You will probably find that some forgotten accident started the trouble.

Remember, what Chiropractic has done for others it can do for you.

Maccagno Asks Information On Fisheries

The grant of exclusive commercial fishing rights to an Edmonton firm on three northern Alberta lakes is likely to be aired in the legislature this session. Michael Maccagno (L.-Lac la Biche) has served notice on the government that he will ask nine questions about the departure in government fisheries regulations, announced last fall by Lands and Forests Minister Norman Willmore.

His question, slated to appear on the order paper for a private members' day in Hous Thursday, ask for the following information:

1. On what date was a contract for fishing rights on Lakes Winnifred, Touchwood and Maria granted to Alberta Fish Products Ltd.?

2. Full details of public advertisements and notices published inviting tenders for the fishing rights to be granted.

3. Details of any other measures taken by the government prior to granting of the contract to advise the public that such fishing rights were or would be available.

4. Why were no provisions contained in the lease respecting tulibee ling and suckers?

5. Has the fish processing plant required by Clause 3 of the contract been constructed, or construction commenced?

6. Why was no provision made in the contract for disposition of the trimmings from the fish processing plant, in light of the fact that mink farmers in this area are dependent on fish trimmings for animal feed?

WHAT PRICE?

7. What price is Alberta Fish Products Ltd. paying to local Fishermen who are required to sell their fish to the company?

8. What provision has been made to preserve fishing rights for local fishermen and to restrict Alberta Fish Products Ltd. from developing a monopoly over all lake fishing in this area?

9. Is the government contemplating any further exclusive fishing franchises on other lakes, if so, what lakes?

Under the agreement signed last October, by the government and Alberta Fish Products Ltd., the company was required to spend $35,000.00 on a fish processing plant at Winnifred Lake and a cold storage plant in Edmonton.

Mr. Willmore said at that time the change in fishing regulations was designed to bolster the commercial fishing industry.

NOT DEVELOPED

He said the lakes in question haven't been exploited commercially for a number of reasons, although they contain fish in commercial quantities, and that the grant of exclusive rights would provide the incentive for someone to fish the lakes and build facilities for processing.

There was no competitive bidding for rights to fish the three lakes, but Mr. Willmore indicated that any other lakes to be leased would be handled by tender.

Commercial fishing in the Lac la Biche area makes an important contribution to Alberta's economy. In addition, mink farmers in the area rely to a great extent on fish trimmings to feed their stock.

Australia is often called the land if living fossils. It is the home of the world's only egg laying mammals and most of the surviving marsupials.
